Navy readies for final decision on live-fire range in Buffer Zone

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer
At the end of the month, U.S. Navy officials will issue a Record of Decision which will be the deciding point on whether to go through with plans for a 5,200 acre live-fire training range in the Stennis Space Center Buffer Zone.
In a press release dated Aug. 12, the Department of the Navy announced that they have released a Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS) to the Environmental Impact Agency (EPA) on July 30. The document is available for public viewing for 30 days at the Bay St. Louis Branch of the Hancock County Public Library and at the St. Tammany Parish Library in Slidell.

The 30-day period, which began on July 30, is known as the wait-period and is a time when no action can be taken. At the conclusion of the wait-period, Navy officials will announce their decision about whether to go through with land acquisition for the training range.
About half the property, 2,700 acres, is owned by the Nature Conservancy and includes the Mike's Island area. The Conservancy was well into the process of acquiring the land when the Navy announced its intentions to

Board pres., parents fear new 'Opportunity Center' could put some students in jeopardy

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

A new alternative education center has been the subject of controversy this week in the Hancock County School District.

The facility, located across from Hancock North Central Elementary, in the old Federal Education Office, has been dubbed the Opportunity Center. The center will be able to accommodate 18 students from the district's alternative school, as well as students in their home-bound program. And it will require one full-time and one part time teaching position.

Leslie Spell, a concerned parent, said she was against the center because of its proximity to the elementary school.
"Everybody thinks the problem is that they're special education children. That's not the problem. These children have done something serious to be put out of the classroom."

Friday the 13th unlucky for burglar

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Friday the 13th started off badly for a Hancock County man, who is in the hospital and awaits charges of burglary of a commercial building following his stay, according to Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell.
"Officer Casey Favre was out on routine patrol checking buildings in the area of Our Shopping Center. He noticed the rear door of Fred's Dollar Store had been pried open at the bottom. While checking the door, he saw a white male suspect stick his head out, who spotted police outside," Varnell's report said.

"The suspect retreated back into the building and evidently attempted to escape though the ceiling. It appeared that he climbed up on the shelves to reach the suspended ceiling and fell approximately 20 feet to the cement floor."

Varnell said, the suspect,

Father-and-son bodybuilders compete on the world stage

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

When his son, Charles Hawkins III, walked up on the stage of the Saenger Theater to compete in the Battle of Biloxi Body Building contest last month, "it was like looking back and watching myself 20 years ago," said Charles Hawkins Jr. on Thursday. And, like his father 20 years earlier, Charles III took a first-place win.

He will return to compete next year in the junior and novice categories. The two men, father and son, have been training together since Charles III was 15 years old, but the younger man has been going to the gym with his father since he was born.

Body building is a life-long love of the elder Hawkins, who has also been training since he was 15 years old.

"I am also a minister and have been preaching since I was 20 ... body building is another tool I use to spread the gospel," said Charles Jr., who now practices under the leadership of Bishop Jeffrey Reed and first lady Tina Reed at the Power House of Deliverance.

He won his first competition on the same stage at the Saenger. A five-time winner of the Mr. Mississippi Competition, and a three-time winner of both the Mr. Southern Nationals and the Mr. Heart of Dixie Competitions, Charles Jr. went on to win the Southern U.S.A. Competition in April and the Team Universe Competition in New York earlier this month. He will now go on to represent the U.S.A. in the World games in Moscow in November.

The sport is more than just a physical competition involving well-developed muscles, Charles Jr. said. It requires a disciplined mind and a disciplined lifestyle.

"One of the major parts of the competition begins here," he says touching the top of his head. "If you don't have it here it will never manifest itself anywhere else ... you must have a strong mind as well."

He carries his philosophy of the power of the mind into all aspects of his life. If he is not feeling well he just goes right on to work and right on to training. "If you work your way through it, then it will go away," Charles Jr. says of illness and problems.

A great deal of his strength comes from others, Charles Jr. says, especially from his wife Yvette, and his son, and all the friends who help and support him and "bring out my best."

"No man can stand alone. If you want to be wise, hang around with wise men; if you want to be great, surround yourself with greatness; and if you want to be a champion, find one and follow in his or her footsteps."

Charles Jr. remembers several "champions" who helped him along the way. Arley Vest who trained him at age 18, coach Dennis Barcelona at Bay Jr. High School, Coach Allison, Ray Hanson in High School, Dr. D. J. Inkol, and many others along the way.

"Many people took me under their wing," he said. "If you are going to become something, you have to have people who invest in you. It is easy to get somewhere, but if you go with some one who has already been there, you can get there in half the time. You have to be a student."

For the competitions in November, Charles Jr. will intensify his workouts and train six days a week with one day of rest. He will also increase protein intake with fish, canned tuna, chicken and egg whites. He eats no red meat. His diet is low in carbohydrates and also contains a lot of vegetables. Everything is either baked or broiled. Lots of water is a must. His favorite "junk" food is a bowl of cereal or onion rings, and root beer. But he avoids the junk during intense training.

"Each level demands more sacrifice and more intense training," he said.

His advice to young people who want to achieve any goal is to "believe in yourself" and don't let anyone tell you that you can't achieve your goals.

"Stay focused. Your mind must be made up," said Charles Jr. "You can't stop dreaming."

And be open to others who can help you along the way.

"Even when I am on the stage alone, I don't feel like I am by myself," he said. "I can feel the presence of my loved ones and the hand of God."

A Picayune resident was charged last week with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon after he allegedly struck a man in the face with a gun, Sheriff Steve Garber reports.

Investigator Matt Barnett said, "Walter D. Dickerson, 44, of Picayune was arrested on August 7, after he allegedly struck a Forest Lee Road resident in his face with a .44 caliber hand gun."

"The victim was taken to Crosby Hospital in Picayune for stitches to his lips and cheek. He also suf-arrest of Dickerson. Dickerson was transported to the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility with a bond of $5,000 set, Barnett said.

Make every vote count in Waveland

The cool snap which arrived Thursday evening was very welcome for two different reasons. One was a relief from the hot blustery weather we have had in recent days. The other was that the cold front sent both storms Bonnie and Charley in other directions.

Florida was lucky as Bonnie did not cause much damage, but, with Charley it was different.

Just think, some two million people were given the word to move out of Charley's possible path in Florida.

That is a lot of folks. Hurricanes are very unpredictable, as Charley's direction was miscalculated by the Weather Bureau. Many of us are well aware that a hurricane change direction very fast.

The only time I do not consider a hurricane a threat is when it is completely down-graded.

It is very important for all the qualified electors in Waveland's Ward 1 to go to the polls Tuesday, August 17, and vote for the candidate of their choice.

The special election is to fill the rest of the term of Keith Mitchell, who handed in his resignation in June.

Every vote does count, as I can call an election when Domonic Sonier was elected by one vote in an alderman election in Waveland years ago. There have been other elections in the county, too, in which one vote made a difference.

The four candidates for this election have been busy doing their campaigns and now it is up to the qualified electors to decide whom they want to represent them in Ward 1.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, Coleman Avenue, Waveland for voters.

If one candidate does not receive a majority of the votes Tuesday, the two top candidates will be in a run-off next Tuesday, November 24.

Waveland's Ward 1 voters need to vote Tuesday and remind their neighbors to vote too.

Best of luck to all of the candidates.

An important event happening on Wednesday morning will be the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Breakfast with the Mayor featuring Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo.

The event will take place at Casino Magic, Bay St. Louis. The fee is $15 per person, and includes a full breakfast buffet.

Advanced reservations are requested by calling the chamber's office at 467-9048. This is a good time to hear about the good things happening in Waveland.

Eliminating bad, brown water

Recently I was pleased to join our Congressional delegation in announcing almost $6 million in federal assistance for water system upgrades throughout Mississippi. Every year I vigorously support water and waste water projects because they sustain and improve public health, and they lay the groundwork for new job growth. Any community's future will depend largely on the quality of public works they can provide. In the 21st century there's really no excuse for anybody to be drinking bad water or depending on a weak, undependable water system.

From the Senate

By U.S. Sen. Trent Lott

When I was growing up in Pascagoula, our water was brown and full of rust and impurities that may not have presented an immediate health threat, but at least were very questionable. Now our water is clean and clear enough to be bottled. Because of my own brown-water experience and that of many Mississippians, I've made funding water and sewer upgrades a priority. Our state's rural communities especially are benefiting from federal water assistance, administered primarily through the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Rural Development.

Rural systems in Greene, Perry, Holmes, Wayne, Pearl River and DeSoto counties are the latest to receive USDA grants and loans for new wells, new lines, new water tanks and other upgrades that boost capacity, improve service and add new customers to community water systems. Just 15 to 20 years ago, shallow rural wells seemed the norm throughout Mississippi. Now thanks to the efforts of many local officials working in conjunction with the state's federal delegation, virtually every corner of Mississippi has access to community water which is monitored for safety and capable of the capacities that industries require.

Sure, a lot of folks grew up just fine drinking water from a household well. Some continue to use well water, and in many cases their water is acceptable. Yet, there is risk both to person and pocketbook.

$99 MILLION CUT IN HIGHWAY REPAIR

Safe, fast, affordable drugs for seniors

BY JIM MARTIN
President,

60 Plus Association

How do senior citizens like their prescription medications? Safe. Fast. Affordable.

In this country, drug safety falls under the purview of the Food & Drug Administration (FDA) and the agency enjoys a near-spotless record in this arena. The speed with which the agency approves new drugs for market has steadily increased since the early 1990s. Affordability? Well, that's another story — an issue that warrants the FDA's time and attention.

As the head of the 60 Plus Association, a national senior citizens group that depends on 5 million seniors for support, I've taken time to study issues surrounding both prescription drugs and the FDA. Given the urgency and complexity of the health care crisis looming in this country, I'm confused as to why Congress would choose now as the time to dilute the FDA's focus on prescription drug approvals and other issues.

There are bills pending in both the U.S. House and Senate that propose the FDA take over full regulation of the tobacco industry. A multi-billion-dollar industry, tobacco dwarfs the FDA. Current proposals would mandate that the FDA specify down to the minutest detail the requirements for naturally occurring components of tobacco leaf and the soil in which it grows. Preposterous.

The FDA already has a role in tobacco that is commensurate with its area of focus and expertise: prevention of the sale of tobacco products to minors. And that's as it should remain. No additional FDA oversight of tobacco is appropriate.

Rather than tobacco, the FDA needs to focus on fixing problems raging with prescription drugs. Although the FDA has worked hard to reduce the time and expense of its approval process, more work needs to be done. Today, it costs companies $800 million to bring

Letters to the Editor

Our letters policy

The Sea Coast Echo welcomes comments from its readers. Letters must be signed and include address or telephone number. Letters should be brief, preferably typewritten and double-spaced. a new drug to market. That's clearly prohibitive and creates barriers to medical innovation.

Additionally, the FDA could and should play an important role in educating the American public, and seniors in particular, about existing discounts for prescription drugs. Discounts that would give seniors and others some relief from med-related costs exist, but unfortunately, consumers don't "shop" for their medicines in the same way they shop for groceries and clothes. An effective information campaign by an agency as credible as the FDA could alleviate drastic price differentials and help resolve the heated "reimportation" issue now raging.

The FDA's focus will change drastically if legislation passes that makes it responsible for tobacco regulation. No Congressional committee has held hearings with the FDA to determine if the agency is capable of such duty, much less the appropriate federal resource. Clearly, Congress must more carefully consider the feasibility of FDA regulation before it proceeds, and assess the negative impact such a law would have on the FDA's other and more important responsibilities.

Rather than turning its attention to tobacco, the FDA needs to continue its focus on keeping our food supply free of contaminants and our medicines safe, fast and, most importantly, affordable.

Three-year-old in critical condition after being hit by car at Lakeshore

Child's mother jailed for neglect after leaving kids home alone to play at casino

BY GEOFF BELCHER
Staff Writer

A three-year-old Lakeshore boy was in critical-but-stable condition at Children's Hospital in New Orleans yesterday after being hit by a car in the early morning hours.

"What happened," Hancock County Sheriff Steve Garber said yesterday, "was a woman had left her three kids alone in a mobile home - a five-year-old, a three-month-old and the three-year-old boy - while she went to the casino."

The incident happened at about 1 a.m. Saturday, Garber said.

"The mother and father had separated. ... Evidently, the five-year-old ... picked up the three-month-old, woke up the three-year-old, and started walking down Lakeshore Rd. to the father's house."

On the way, Garber said, the three-year-old was struck by a car at Lakeshore and Third Marsh Rd. The driver of the vehicle did not stop.

The children's mother, Thuvan Huynh, 39, was arrested and charged with three counts of felony neglect. She was jailed at the Hancock County Justice Facility, where she remained yesterday pending $150,000 bond.

The three-year-old, whose name is being withheld, was initially transported to Hancock Medical Center before being flown to Children's Hospital at around 5:30 a.m. yesterday, Garber said.

"Whoever struck the child may not have known they did it," Garber said, urging anyone with information in the case to call the sheriff's department at 467-5101.

Investigator Tom Roan is in charge of the case.

Some unchecked water from shallow wells that looks and tastes good may not always be free of harmful bacteria and chemical compounds that pose a health hazard. At the same time, many rural residents using a private well always run the risk of their well being knocked out of service by equipment failures or lightning surges that can cost hundreds, sometimes thousands of dollars to fix - repairs with prices exceeding many years worth of monthly community water bills. So, having good public water systems makes sense. It's safe, dependable and much more affordable in the long term.

Of course, I talk with many businesses every year who are looking to expand within our state. They openly ask about roads, education and transportation, but they expect good public infrastructure to be a given.

If it's not, they move on. Population growth depends on good water systems, too. As I noted earlier, two of the recent projects were for DeSoto and Stone counties. These counties must be able to accommodate a continuing influx of new residents and businesses. I've worked with the Congressional delegation to obtain federal funds impacting several DeSoto County water projects. And, on the other end of the state along the Coast, I've worked with local officials to fund new types of water treatment facilities, including a reverse-osmosis plant in Moss Point. This super-filtration process will end Most Point's long struggle against poor water.

Public health and job growth depends on good water. In the 21st century no one from the busiest urban street to the dustiest rural dirt road should have to endure poor water. Thanks to the efforts of many concerned people, bad brown water is almost extinct.

Small-town Peterman achieves big-time dreams

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Waveland's own favorite son, Stephen Peterman, has now officially become a member of the Dallas Cowboys and the National Football League.

One week prior to training camp, Peterman signed a four-year deal that made him a millionaire in one strike of the pen. The details of the contract amount were not disclosed; however, it was a larger contract than he had expected to receive. Now, he is ecstatic about getting to work. Peterman is out to prove to the management and coaches of the Dallas Cowboys what we already know - that he can play ball.

According to Fred Peterman, Stephen's father, he was ready to get the contract negotiations behind him and start playing football. He and his wife, Colleen, have purchased a home in Flower Mound just outside of Dallas.

Peterman is currently listed second on the depth chart behind eight-time All-Pro Larry Allen at left guard.

Parcells has maintained concerns about his offensive line but Peterman has at training camp in Oxnard, California, because he knows that the best performers in summer training will start the season opener at Minnesota.

Peterman is also learning how to play with pain early in training camp. Just this past week, Fred Peterman stated that Stephen had broken his right ring finger during the morning practice.

He finished the workouts and went to the team's medical staff. In not too many words, Peterman stated that he wanted it in a cast so that he did not miss any training camp. Peterman's wish was granted and he has not missed a minute of practice.

Peterman prepped at St. Stanislaus College where he was a first-team All-State selection following his senior season. He signed to play with LSU and became a two-time first-team All-American and helped the Tigers capture the 2003 BCS National Championship with their 21-14 win over top-ranked Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl.

He was drafted in the third round (#83 overall) by the Dallas Cowboys.

received praise from the coaches and management about his powerful run blocking style. Peterman stands 6-4 and weighs 317 pounds. He led LSU with 149 key blocks in 2003 including 128 knockdowns and only gave up one sack.

The same type of mauler-attitude that garnered first team All-American honors for Peterman at LSU is the same attitude he is giving the Cowboys in Dallas.

Bay & OLA start season out 2-0 in volleyball

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

The Our Lady Academy Crescents, defending Class I state champions, defeated the Long Beach Lady Bearcats in four sets in high school girls volleyball action on Thursday, August 12 to improve to 2-0 on the young season. OLA won the first two sets 25-23 and 25-17. The Crescents dropped the third set 20-25 before rebounding with a decisive 25-13 win in the fourth set.

OLA was led by two double digit scorers in Jordan Fisher and Sarah Loiacano. Fisher tallied 13 points while Loiacano added 11 points and 9 assists. Other top performers were Lauren Renz with 8 kills and Kaylee Schmitt with 6 kills. Amanda Meyers added 7 assists in the match.

OLA head coach Mike Meyers commented, "Long Beach is very athletic. They return your hits and do a good job defensively. Tonight, we executed poorly. Our footwork was key to our poor execution. We did not pass well and that led to no sets. When you are not able to set then you can't hit the ball effectively. We are still trying to get used to the new scoring system the state has put into effect this year. It will take some time to get used to. However, conditioning and a deep bench will play into the outcome of the game with the new scoring."

OLA recorded won the season opener on the road against Ocean Springs on Tuesday, August 10 in three sets. OLA claimed the sets by the scores of 25-15, 25-17, and 25-20.

Against Ocean Springs, OLA was led by Amanda Meyers with 10 points and Lauren Renz with seven. Schmitt and Renz each had 9 kills in the game while Shelly Reboul and Loiacano had 12 and 9 assists, respectively.

The OLA junior varsity is also undefeated at 2-0 having defeated Ocean Springs on Tuesday 25-8 and 25-17. The JV was led by Katie Reboul with 10 points. Jaimie Reisch and Katie Reboul each had 5 kills while Lakasia Ducksworth had 7 assists.

The Bay High Lady

Tigers also started out 2-0 during the first week of high school volleyball with wins over St. Martin and Gautier. Bay High defeated St. Martin in four sets on Tuesday. The Lady Tigers dropped the first set 15-25 before winning three comsecutive sets 25-21, 25-12 and 25-20 for the win.

In the game against St. Martin, Tamara Reed led Bay High with 13 points and 7 assists.

The junior varsity lost their opening match of the year to St. Martin in three sets. The Lady Yellow Jackets won the first and third sets 15-25 and 12-25. Bay High won the middle set 25-19.

On Thursday, Bay High defeated Gautier in three sets 25-8, 25-6 and 25-20 to improve to 2-0 on the season.

Hannah Johnson was the Lady Tigers' leading scorer with 17 points. Kendra Reed added 14 points.

The junior varsity dropped to 0-2 on the season losing two sets to Gautier 22-25 and 15-25.

The Crescents are participating in a four-team tournament in North Mississippi against 5A schools Madison Central, Tupelo and Southaven this weekend. They will return to action in the Father Peter Mockler Gymnasium on Tuesday, August 19 against Gulfport.

Bay High will host the Hancock Lady Hawks on Tuesday at 6pm and Long Beach on Thursday at 6pm in the Wilmer Seymour Gymnasium.

According to Peggy Ladner, school board president, students in the alternative school have committed offenses severe enough to be removed from the student population, but not severe enough for expulsion.

Students in the special education program can be expelled, but Ladner said the district is still obligated to provide services to them through a homebound education program.

"As the law requires, we have to provide services to special education students who commit offenses severe enough to be expelled," Ladner said. "Typically this includes drugs, weapons and repeated assault offenses. In the past, the district's homebound teacher provided these services after regular school hours when the other students have left the campus. These students will now be served at the Opportunity Center along with the alternative school students."

Superintendent David Kopf said these concerns were unfounded.

"We're not going to ever put any person in a school situation that would put them in a danger to themselves or others. These are simply children that need to be served. I talked to the special education coordinator. She's assured me that none of these children pose any kind of threat."

The school board approved the Opportunity Center during its Aug. 5 meeting. Ladner voted against the center, because she said it was not placed on the board's agenda until right before the meeting. She added that the students would get much less time in the classroom at the Opportunity Center.

"According to the administration, the four slots at Picayune's alternative school cost the district $21,000. We were told that for the additional cost of the new center, the students were going to receive extended services, but it appears to me their services are being diminished. In the past, all of the alternative school students, special and regular education students, received services five days a week. Now these services are being diminished by 60 percent to two days per week for the special education only. This is not fair to these students or their families. These students should not be at home or on the street three days a week.

These children need to be in school. To give the regular education students services five days a week and give the special education students services only two days a week is wrong."

Jean Young, the district's special education coordinator, said that even though the students attended school for only two days a week, they received a dramatic increase in service since last year.

"We went from about four hours a week to twelve," Young said. "We work with the children two days a week, all day long. All services are based on the needs of their individual education plan."

Kopf added that the Opportunity Center was running very smoothly.

"We have the program, it's running very smoothly, they're doing a tremendous job, and the children are being served. The concerns are speculations, and they're unwarranted. We're off to a great start, and we expect it to continue."

Ladner said that the Opportunity Center would be discussed at the next board meeting. She added that she placed the topic on the agenda at the request of another board member.

open the training range. The Conservancy had already completed an extensive plan for the restoration of the area.

Some other property is owned by private business owners who run sand and gravel, and timber and turf operations. The proposed site is also the location of a commercial recreational area.

Opponents of the live-fire range say that if the Navy decides to go ahead with the facility, those business owners stand to lose just over a million dollars in gross revenues when the businesses close; and that Hancock County stands to lose about $21,000 in property tax revenues.

Navy officials have said the range would be a boon to the county. Navy studies show possible revenues associated with the project could bring from $200,000 to $2.5 million to the two-state area, which includes Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River Counties, and St. Tammany Parish, much of which would be a result of fuel sales at Stennis International or other airports.

At a Board of Supervisors meeting last February, Nature conservancy representative Cynthia Ramseur said that U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor has assured the agency that property acquisition for the proposed facility would not be gained by imminent domain and that negotiations for the sale of the land would only take place with willing sellers.

On Friday, Taylor said he stood by his belief that the land should only be acquired through willing sellers. "Of course, I am only one Congressman," Taylor said. "But I strongly believe that land should only be acquired through willing sellers."

When Stennis Space Center moved to the area, property for the center—close to 40 percent of Hancock County—was acquired by imminent domain. Some property owners in the Buffer Zone chose to lease the land to the government rather than sell outright at that time. Navy officials said that land acquired for the training range would become the permanent possession of the Navy.

If the training range become a reality it will be used for special operations riverine and jungle live-fire training using Short Range Training Ammunition. SRTA is a plastic, non-lead, non explosive projectile with a limited flight capability. Helicopter operations would also be conducted. Operations may temporarily close river access for short periods of time. Operations would only be conducted on weekdays, said Navy officials.

Burglar

Jason Ryan Dixon, of Dan Garcia Road in Bay St., Louis, suffered a broken collar bone, an avulsion to the face and a possible skull fracture.

"Officers entered the building and found the suspect, who was transported by American Medical Response to Memorial Hospital at Gulfport, and is currently being held for observation. The suspect told officers he was there to steal clothes and televisions," Varnell said.

Dixon now awaits charges of burglary of a commercial building and his bond will be $10,000—when he is released from the hospital. An initial court appearance has been set in Waveland Municipal Court for Sept. 2, Varnell said.

Officers investigating the burglary were Favre, Officer Glen Volkman and Sgt. Trent Boyd. Criminal Investigator Laura Stepro is in charge of the investigation.

Varnell added, "The investigation continues and more arrests are expected."

Filter and teammates Carol Cronin and Nancy Haberland, began competing in Athens yesterday, and are scheduled to sail in events over the course of the next week.

The three finished third at the women's world cham-

'Wave Fest' set September 5

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

It's that time of year again - time to start preparing for the Fourth Annual Wave Fest. This year Wave Fest will be held on Sunday, September 5, from 10 a.m. till 8 p.m. on Coleman Avenue in Waveland. Booths are still available.

Coleman Ave. will close to all traffic at 9:30 a.m. and remained closed until 8 p.m.

A one mile fun run and a 5K run will begin at 8 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. respectively, with registration for the runs beginning at 7 a.m. at the Garfield Ladner Pier. Runners should not park on Coleman Ave. because of the street closing.

Early registration for the Antique car show will be held from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. at Coleman and Central Ave. Awards will be presented at 3:45 with a grand procession to the beach at 4 p.m.

Promoters hope this will be the biggest and the best year yet. To make that happen, they need your help. Help can be in the form of a sponsorship for the folding map that will serve as both a guide and a map to the festivities, monetary support, volunteering, or by participating. Help from individuals or groups is welcomed.

The event began as a venue for community participation, as an end of summer celebration for both residents and visitors, and of course to promote an atmosphere to encourage economic growth on Coleman Ave. Each year the Fest has continued to grow.

Besides the 5K run and Antique Auto Show, this year's Fest will feature live bands all day, arts and crafts, food and beverage booths, information booths, children's games and rides, a sand sculpting contest at the beach, community entertainment and a raffle. Downtown businesses will feature sidewalk sales or other promotions. A fireworks display sponsored by the City of Waveland will finish the day.

Bands will include The Blackened Blues Band, The Porch Rockers, Kan Dee Side, and Road 326. On the Coleman Ave. stage will be performing Glenn and Kitty, dancers singers and theater groups.

Individuals, artists, crafts people, civic, church, school, business and community organizations, restaurants, and others are invited to reserve booths. Participation by the entire community is encouraged.

For more information on Wave Fest, to reserve a booth or a sponsorship, or to volunteer please call Carol Kerr at 228-467-1405, or Kathy Pinn at 228-467-3922. The event is sponsored by the Coleman Ave. Coalition and the City of Waveland. For more information on the 5K run call 228-469-0792. For more information on the auto show call 228-467-3922 or 467-1815.

Hancock Library System is something to believe in

There's only one thing better than having a national award-winning library system in your community - and that is to have four unique branches of that award-winning library system in Hancock County.

"Each branch has its own ambience," said Prima Plauche, library system director. "For instance, the Waveland Public Library that opened a year ago uses a beach theme. It has its own dock in the children's library where children can sit on the dock and read. A beach scene mural surrounds the dock, complete with beach buckets and footprints in the sand."

The headquarters facility in Bay St. Louis boasts paintings, marble and steel sculpture, and five sculptures by internationally renowned Bay St. Louis sculptor Richmond Barthe. He was one of the most significant black sculptors associated with the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s and 1930s. Waveland sculptor Hamilton Guenard's marble and steel pieces complement the open and airy atmosphere.

Last year the headquarters library was named a National Literary Landmark by Friends of Libraries USA. The landmark plaque was presented to the library in honor of the late author Stephen E. Ambrose, a Bay St. Louis resident who used the library to research many of his best-selling books.

A 20-foot mosaic mural, named Renaissance - The Revival of a Community, depicts the history and culture of Hancock County. It involved the work of more than 200 children, families and groups under the direction of muralist Elizabeth Veglia.

The Kiln Public Library reflects a lodge atmosphere. Library visitors can sit beneath the vaulted beam ceiling and curl up with a book across from the gas log fireplace. Paintings by nature artist Richard Sloan and a collection of wooden duck decoys add to the atmosphere.

The Pearlinton Public Library, a joint-use facility in the Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, has paintings by the late folk artist Alice Moseley, along with handmade paintings and drawings by the students from the adjoining school.

New and traditional library services in Hancock County are just a click, call or visit away. The library system's web page, www.hancock.lib.ms.us, provides library users 24/7 access to the Easy Access Catalog and more than 115,000 print and non-print resources.

The Easy Access Line, 466-0989, provides customers with automated telephone access to their library accounts. And the Easy Access Info Line, 467-5282, extension 13, provides one-on-one research assistance by highly trained and qualified library staff.

"Easy Access Catalog gives our library customers the same friendly, traditional library service delivered in a spirit of excellence," concluded Plauche. "From their home, school or business computer, they have the ability to search for items, get into their library account, renew items, and place items on hold - all via the library system's web page."

One of the library system's community partnerships is Computer Smarts @ Your Library, basic computer instruction and word processing for adults, in cooperation with the Pearl River Community College Workforce Development Center.

The Authors & Characters @ Your Library program features authors and characters each month. The Great Books Discussion Group meets every other Wednesday at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library to discuss great books, Mississippi fiction, plays readings and 20 philosophical questions. The Second Friday Book Club meets the second Friday of every month at the Kiln Public Library to discuss current bestsellers.

The Read It on the Road collection provides library customers with fiction and non-fiction books on compact disc to read during commutes and car trips.

Magnolia, accessed via the library system's web page, gives library customers access to tens of thousands of searchable databases of periodicals, journals and articles.

FOCUS (Free Online Computer User Services) offers high speed Internet access to the World Wide Web.

So, whether you read for information or for entertainment, whether you read to yourself or have someone read to you, the Hancock County Library System has the right materials for you, and is definitely something to believe in.

Dear sweethearts, for the last five years our quality of life has been lost. You affected our lives in ways others may never get a chance to experience. Just your presence in our midst said it all. As long as you were a part of our lives, we were very content. But who are we without you? We are still searching for ourselves. We are forced to continue to press forward in life. We find some comfort knowing you left us a part of yourselves, and we never will truly be without you altogether.

We miss and love you so much Ceci, Sean and Joe-Joe, and will forever. Thank you for loving us, as we will forever hold a strong love for you.

Seniors fall victim to telemarketing scam

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Attorney General Jim Hood and Robert J. Garrity, Jr., Special Agent in Charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) in Mississippi, announced recently that elderly persons throughout Mississippi have lost tens of thousands of dollars to telemarketing scams originating out of Canada. The FBI has been working with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) in two separate operations specifically designed to identify these fraudulent telemarketers operating from Canada who are targeting U.S. persons; however, once the money is lost, there is very little authorities can do to recover it.

One such scam in particular which has been around since at least 2002 seems to be targeting Mississippi seniors at a higher rate than ever before. Generally, the scam begins with a telephone call stating that the person has won money in some type of Canadian lottery or sweepstakes. The callers are very convincing and often represent themselves as attorneys who must settle the payout. Amounts of reported bogus winnings vary from $50,000 to $500,000. Usually, the scam proceeds with the caller stating they need a certain amount of money from the elderly victim to pay the Canadian taxes and/or customs charges in order to send the money to the United States. This amount can range from $1,000 to over $10,000. Once the scam artists receive that money, they will usually ask for payment for some other charge. Often times they will even pose as United States Customs officials over the telephone to try and cheat the elderly victim out of as much money as possible.

The FBI recently received a complaint from a retired Mississippi school teacher who received a call from a person in Canada representing himself as an attorney. The retired teacher was told she had won $100,000 in a Canadian sweepstakes. As directed, she wired $10,000 to what she thought was an attorney's office in Canada. Once that money was received, the scam artists requested more money for some other fictitious tax or customs fee. The victim became suspicious and called the FBI. She was advised that it was a scam and not to send any more money. However, she so much wanted to believe she had won money and the persons running the scam were so convincing, she sent them $20,000 more. Her $30,000 was lost and never recovered.

A new version of this scam has surfaced. The sweepstakes sponsor, supposedly the Government of Canada, is sending unsolicited "checks" to consumers. The Attorney General's Office tells of a Mississippi resident who recently received a letter, allegedly from the "Government of Canada," along with a check made payable to her for over $2,000. The letter told her that she had won $100,000 in the International Lottery Sweepstakes and that the "Government of Canada" was sending her a prepayment of $2000 to cover the necessary fees to claim the $100,000 prize. She was told to cash the check and send the funds to the "Government of Canada." She would then receive her lottery winnings. Luckily, this consumer suspected this was a scam and contacted the Attorney General Office. She did not cash the check, which later proved to be counterfeit, and she did not send any money to Canada.

An even newer scam was attempted on a Mississippi resident whereby a gentleman was asked by someone purporting to represent the FBI and Canadian authorities to accept $250,000 in reward money for providing information relating to a sweepstakes scam originating out of Canada. All he had to do was send a $2,500 fee in order to receive his reward money!

Telemarketing fraud is estimated to cost consumers nearly Forty Billion Dollars each year. According to the "Protecting Seniors From Fraud Act" (Pub.L. 106-534, Sections 1 to 4, Nov. 22, 2000), our Nation's elderly are too frequently the victims of violent crime, property crime, and consumer and telemarketing fraud, often targeted and retargeted in a range of fraudulent schemes. Congress has passed certain laws which allow for an upward departure from Sentencing Guidelines, based on the Senior Citizens Against Marketing Scams Act of 1994 (Pub.L. 103-322, Title XXV, Sept. 13, 1994, 108 Stat. 2081 (SCAMS Act)) in prosecutions arising from telemarketing schemes which prey upon our elderly citizens. Mr. Garrity states, "Any senior citizen in receipt of a suspect fraudulent telemarketing call should discuss this matter with another person, such as a police officer, an adult child, or minister before responding to the solicitation.

The simple rule on this type of case is - if you actually do win something legitimately, you will not be asked to pay anything to receive it; any legitimate fee or tax will simply be taken out of any winnings. If someone asks you to pay money in advance, it is a scam. If you are asked to cash a check and then send money, it is a scam. Also, you will usually not win something unless you enter. If you do not recall entering a contest, it is probably a scam.

If you feel you have been the victim of this scam, please call the Attorney General's office at 601/359-4230 or your local FBI office and give the information specific to your circumstance.

The following is a rather loose translation from the Chinese. It is from the book, Memories of Emperor Ling Po by I Long. For reasons that I will relate in a moment, I think it appropriate to present it at this time.

Long writes: "It happened one evening when Emperor Ling was walking alone in the garden with a barest of retinue: twenty aides, a small number of hand servants and perhaps thirty bodyguards. It was a beautiful evening to be alone and the Emperor looked up to see the moon shining brightly on him, evidently happy to have shining in his silver light such a wonderful personage."

"Emperor Ling called to his major domo who quickly came and bowed."

"If I call to the moon" asked the Emperor, "can he hear me?"

"Oh wondrous sire, he is very unfortunate in that he is so far away that he cannot hear the wise words of your extraordinary self. He must of course, see and know of your illustrious being or else he would not shine so brightly on your gracious self, but, alas, he can not hear you."

"Emperor Ling thought on this and felt sad. He was a very kind Emperor and wished to thank the moon for giving him the lovely light of that evening. He walked a little bit among his flowers and thought. After a time he called again for his major domo."

"I have decided to thank the moon for his lovely present of silver light. I will thank him in a voice so loud that even as far away as he is, he will hear it. It will be a voice louder than has ever been heard on this earth. A voice loud enough to be heard in the heavens."

"Write out a decree to be sent to all the people throughout the empire. In it say that on the evening of the day that the moon comes again to visit us with his full self, every person in the land shall stand in front

Monster Storm of the Gulf Coast

On the 35th anniversary of Hurricane Camille, Tuesday, August 17, the Hancock County Library is hosting author Philip D. Hearn to tell the gripping story of the killer storm. The program is set for 7 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 312 Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis, and is part of the Authors & Characters @ Your Library series.

Hurricane Camille book tells gripping story 35 years later

THE SEA COAST ECHO
It was August 17, 1969 when Hurricane Camille roared out of the Gulf of Mexico and smashed into Mississippi's 26 miles of coastline. Winds were clocked at more than 200 miles an hour, tidal waves surged to nearly 35 feet, and the barometric pressure of 26.85 neared an all-time low.

The history of Hurricane Camille is told in a newly released book by Philip D. Hearn, Hurricane Camille: Monster Storm of the Gulf Coast. The book is based on the memories of those survived the Category 5 winds and waves. Their firsthand accounts, compiled a decade after the storm and archived at the University of Southern Mississippi, form the core of Hearn's book.

On the 35th anniversary of Hurricane Camille, Tuesday, August 17, the Hancock County Library is hosting Hearn to tell the gripping story of the killer storm. The program is set for 7 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 312 Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis, and is part of the Authors & Characters @ Your Library series.

Hear the story of Paul Williams, his son Malcolm and his son-in-law Nick who, perched in separate trees in Live Oaks Cemetery in Pass Christian, yelled for help all through the night of August 17, 1969. Paul, Malcolm and Nick were rescued, but his wife, eleven of his children and one grandchild perished in storm.

Property damage from the storm exceeded $1.5 billion, $48.6 billion in today's dollars. The death toll in the state's three coastal counties - Hancock, Harrison and Jackson - reached 131, with another 41 persons never found.

Members of black Methodist jurisdiction gather for first reunion

The Central Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church, formerly an all African-American regional area of the segregated Methodist Church from 1939 - 1968, will come together to celebrate in a reunion Aug. 27-29, in Atlanta, Ga., at the Atlanta Marriott Airport Hotel in College Park, Ga.

The reunion under the theme, "Reviewing Yesterday...Discerning Paths for Tomorrow," is designed to be a celebration bringing together those who served during the segregated years and those continuing to serve after merger as a history sharing experience. The jurisdiction was the result of an agreement for a place for black Methodists in the merger of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church.

The reunion is FREE and will be convened by the National Planner, Evelyn Gibson Lowery at 2:00 p.m. on Friday with retired Bishop L. Scott Allen presiding over an opening devotional service.

The reunion weekend will begin on Friday, August 27th at 9:00 a.m. with a "Pictorial History of African Americans in the United Methodist Church" presented by Bishop Forrest C. Stith, chairman of the African American Methodist Center, followed by a panel of "the Committee of Five's Search for an Inclusive Methodist Fellowship" with Retired Bishop James S. Thomas, Judge Richard Erwin and Evans Crawford. Bishop Leontine Kelly, the first African American woman elected bishop in the United Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon at the 7:30 p.m. worship service on Aug. 27th. Rev. Gilbert Caldwell and the Rev. James Lawson will lead a 10:00 a.m. plenary on Saturday, Aug. 28th on "The Birth of the National Black Methodists for Church Renewal." The plenary will be followed by a discussion on "The Journey - Telling the Story - the 1968 Debate." The "Evaluation of the Merger" by Bishop Woody White, the Rev. Joseph E. Lowery and Barbara Thomas, former top executive for the United Methodist Commission on Religion and Race, is being slated as one of the highlights of the event.

Many other clergy and laity who were a part of the segregated Central Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church and those serving the present day inclusive United Methodist Church will share personal and institutional memories at this historical event.

An overview of United Methodist Colleges and Universities will be presented by the Rev. Jerome King Del Pino, top executive for the United Methodist Board of Higher Education and Ministry, followed by a panel discussion on "Where Do we Go From Here?" led by the Rev. Emmanuel Cleaver and the Rev. William McClain.

Caldwell, coordinator of the Saturday evening "Recognitions Banquet" announced other participants of the Central Jurisdiction Reunion will be Atlanta Mayor Shirley Franklin, and Wintley Augustus Phipps, the world renowned artist, Grammy Awards nominee, motivational speaker and education activist, who will perform during the banquet, Saturday, August 28th.

The three-day event will conclude on Sunday, August 29th with a Song Fest and Candle Lighting Ceremony honoring "The Cloud of Witnesses" (those who have died), followed by an "Ole Fashion" church fellowship picnic.

"The Central Jurisdiction Reunion is the first of what is hoped to be many to come since the merger, Evelyn Lowery said. "This reunion is long overdue and we are hoping that it will be the beginning of an annual event to continue to educate persons about the past experiences of African Americans in the church - with historical artifacts gathered from those involved during the Central Jurisdiction prior to merger to be placed in the care of the Historical Archives of the African American Methodist Heritage Center." Mrs. Lowery further states,

"This is a pivotal part of the Methodist church history and a time of celebration."

For additional information, including registration and cost of banquet tickets, please contact Evelyn Lowery or Linda Askew at the Central Jurisdiction Reunion office (404) 589-1120 or email sashabseli-na@msn.com.

Weddings and Engagements

Patricia Chevis, Brian John Rivers are wed in Bay St. Louis ceremony

Patricia "Patty" Alice Chevis and Brian John Rivers of Hattiesburg, MS were united in marriage on July 24, 2004.

Patty is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Chevis of Bay St. Louis, MS.

Mr. Rivers is the son of Mrs. Charles Holifield of Laurel, MS.

The ceremony was performed on the grounds of the Bay St. Louis Depot under arches of roses, hydrangeas, calla lilies, tulles and greenery. Judge Jay Lagasse performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a Georgette Sheath strapless gown. The gown was embellished with beaded metallic embroidered empire waist. Her Aline gown fell into a semi cathedral train. She carried a bouquet consisting of an array of champagne, peach and yellow roses.

Mary Douglas Chevis the mother of the bride was Matron of Honor.

Dr. Sidney Chevis, father of the bride attended Mr. Rivers as Best Man.

The reception was held at the Depot. The Depot was decorated with candles in hurricane glasses with arrangements of roses, lillies and greenery on the guest tables. The bridal table held a three tiered wedding cake on a sterling silver cake stand. Crystal hurricane candle holders with arrangements of roses completed the table.

Following their honeymoon, the couple will reside in Hattiesburg, MS.

of his house and at the stroke of midnight exactly, shall call to the moon in as loud a voice as they can, "THANK YOU." Let no one be excused, no one, even the women shall call out. We will than have such a thunderous voice as never before heard and then, you see, the moon will hear our sincere thanks.

"The major domo and all the court retinue about him were astonished at the wisdom of the Emperor and fell groveling on the ground. On the next day, the decree was sent forth as Emperor Ling ordered and soon the entire empire began to prepare for the evening of the next coming of the moon when it was planned that the loudest noise that had ever been heard would be the thanks sent by the Emperor Ling to the silver moon.

"Imagine the excitement of that night when the moon next showed his full self to the people of the empire of Emperor Ling Po. That evening the moon's light was wonderfully bright; it was as if was expecting the incredible noise. Everyone prepared themselves. Even the children were allowed to stay up to add to the anticipated great din. The dogs were told to be still, the cows wrapped in sheets and the hens in their own feathers. It was so arranged everywhere so that at the appointed time of the huge voice, nothing but the exulted cry of all the people in the empire would be heard.

"At the moment to the hour, everyone in the kingdom, their eyes big and round, filled with the expectation of hearing the loudest noise that had ever been heard, turned to their neighbor and, at the precise moment, listened.

"And throughout the empire, there happened the greatest silence the world had ever known."

So wrote I Long in the 3rd century of the happenings in the empire of the mighty and magnificent Emperor Ling Po.

Why, you ask, am I telling this old fable? Well, in our fair city we are presently preparing to send a great song of thanks to the heavens and we must each be careful to do our share so that there will not once again be a such a great void of silence.

The equivalent in our city to Emperor Ling is a person of great charm and also much prettier appearance than Ling, who although wise would not produce a smile of such warmth as could polish silver and melt butter. Her name is Cathy and she has a very nice shop on Coleman Avenue in Waveland.

In happened that in January of this year, Cathy, hearing that a group in New York City had made their way into the Guinness Book of Records by having 519 of their number sing Christmas Carols for fifteen minutes non stop, told her dog, Alice (a sort of a toy poodle, six inches high with three inches of the top of the six inches being hair) that people in Waveland could easily gather 600 of their number on the night of the Festival of Lights (December 11) and sing Christmas Carols for at least twenty minutes. In doing so, they would both surely gain entrance into the Guinness Book of Records and just as surely gain notice in the most lofty reaches of Heaven.

Alice barked agreement and so Cathy set about the lengthy process of applying with Guinness to attempt a new record.

Guinness has recently given their approval and on this December 11, a mighty host of carolers, the number of which the world has never seen, will sing Hosannas to the highest in such a voice as to make Emperor Ling spin in his tomb.

(Do you want to be one of that number? Call Cathy Pinn at 467 3922 or stop at That Cute Little Shop at 237 Coleman Ave. and sign up for the choir of this great event.)

NASA INVITES COMMENT ON THE PROPOSED
CLEAN UP PLAN FOR AREA H AT THE JOHN C.
STENNIS SPACE CENTER

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has completed its evaluation of Areas H and I at the John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, Mississippi. NASA has recommended No Further Action for Area I, and identified pump and treat of contaminated groundwater followed by natural attenuation as the clean up remedy for Area H. The public is invited to comment on the Proposed Plan for Area H. The Proposed Plan for Area H and the reports on which it was based can be reviewed by contacting NASA's Environmental Officer (see below), or by visiting the following location:

Hancock County Library, 312 Highway 90, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520,
(228) 467-5282

GROUNDWATER ALTERNATIVES EXAMINED
FOR AREA H

Alternative 1: No Remedial Action. No remedial action would be taken to address contaminated groundwater. This alternative is required by CERCLA to establish a baseline for comparison to other alternatives.
Alternative 2: Groundwater Pump and Treat. This remedy would involve the installation of extraction wells and a water treatment system. Contaminated groundwater will be extracted from the ground using a series of extraction wells, treated at the surface in a water treatment system using ion exchange and granular activated carbon, and discharged to SSC's Wastewater Treatment System, which is an approved, permitted outfall. Use of the system will be discontinued when the contaminant concentrations level off and pumping is no longer effective in extracting contaminants. The remaining contaminant levels would be reduced by natural degradation.

Alternative 3: In Situ Biological Treatment. Naturally growing microorganisms would be used to degrade organic contaminants in the groundwater.

Alternative 4: In Situ Chemical Treatment and In Situ Biological Treatment. This alternative would include installing a treatment wall in the ground that contains ion exchange resin and using naturally growing microorganisms to degrade contaminants in the groundwater.

NASA HAS IDENTIFIED ALTERNATIVE 2, GROUNDWATER PUMP AND TREAT, AS THE PREFERRED ALTERNATIVE FOR AREA H.
YOUR COMMENTS ON THE PROPOSED PLAN
ARE IMPORTANT TO NASA.

Written comments on the Proposed Plan for Area H will be accepted from August 15, 2004 to September 15, 2004. Please send your comments to:

Ms. Anne Peek, NASA Environmental Officer
Code RA02
Stennis Space Center, MS 39529-6000
(228) 688-2004

After considering all comments NASA will select a final clean up strategy for Area H.

THE SEA COAST ECHO

collected the money through fund-raising events such as a blood pressure screening, raffle tickets, and individual and company donations. The class adopted St. Jude as part of the national project sponsored by Health Occupations Students of America (HOSA). In addition, the class donated food and toys to an adopted family during the Christmas holidays.

"This has been a generous and hard-working class," said Barbara Whiddon, LPN instructor. "Not only did they work diligently on their studies all year, but they spent part of their free time to help other people."

Local students among summer graduates of Mississippi State

More than 900 Mississippi State students are candidates for degrees at the conclusion of the 2004 summer term.

Because the university doesn't hold graduation exercises in August, summer graduates will be invited to participate Dec. 11 in the fall semester commencement program.

All bachelor's-degree students with exceptional scholastic averages and at least half the total required course hours earned at MSU are graduated with honors. Their specific levels of recognition and the minimum required averages for each, based on a 4.0 scale, include: summa cum laude, 3.80; magna cum laude, 3.60; and cum laude, 3.40.

The academic honors are recorded on the graduates' diplomas and permanent records, as well as in the fall commencement program.

Degree candidates from Hancock County include:

A Call to Adventure

Over a century ago, in 1900, Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British explorer, placed the following advertisement in London newspapers:

MEN WANTED FOR HAZARDOUS JOURNEY
Small wages, bitter cold, long months of complete darkness, constant danger, safe return doubtful.
Honor and recognition in case of success.

The response was overwhelming, though the expedition failed to reach its goal of getting to the South Pole. Today, Ernest Shackleton is certainly not a household name, and probably only a handful of people remember the names of any of the men who accompanied him. But, as then, men and women the world over still long for adventure, even if it is an adventure as seemingly meaningless as getting to the South Pole. And, if we revere those who risk life and limb to do what has never been done before, then how much more should we honor those who risk their lives to feed the hungry, heal the sick, and spread the gospel? Perhaps it was the adventure and austerity of the call to spread the gospel which made it attractive to the early Christians. And likewise even in these days of luxury and ease, we too need a similar call to austerity, sacrifice, and adventure.

He charged them to take nothing for their journey except a staff; no bread, no bag, no money in their belts; but to wear sandals and not put on two tunics.

Pairing our children and adults

Chavis Green, a 25-year-old parishioner of ours, was speaking to me urgently about the plight of black adolescents and young adults in the Tremé neighborhood where we live. His face drawn and sad, he was not about to bite his tongue concerning his issues.

"Frankly, I'm afraid to step out of the house. So I've been holed up for weeks. Almost every time I move about the neighborhood I run into a cop who starts in on me with some charge about drugs or something I have nothing to do with. All the kids my age have the same problem. They stay inside too for fear of what the police will do to them."

Chavis and I sat down in the church after Sunday Mass, pondering what move to make on behalf of our Tremé youth. Without denying that we have many troubled youths in our neighborhood, we turned our thoughts toward protecting and guiding those who are trying hard to keep themselves clean, find a decent job, and live a meaningful life.

"What about Tremé Youth United?" I asked him. "This is just for starters. We can tweak this name or work on an entirely different one as we move along. At any rate, we urgently need to get all our youth together with common values and purposes."

"That is certainly good enough for now," Chavis allowed. "We can always modify things like our group's name while we are jotting down our mission statement."

"Good! Right now we can scratch together an outline sketching our purpose for coming together, our goals and perhaps some of the strategies we may want to use. After that, you are in a position to gather a solid list of adolescents and young adults in Tremé." We agreed that the Tremé youth themselves, under the guidance of parents, mentors and a couple of trusted police representatives, should be the architects of their own way of life, education, ambitions and destiny. They must feel and live the reality of self-rule.

With Chavis off and running to get a roster of his friends and acquaintances, I began to ponder what youth organizations are already out there, what relationship we would have with them, and how we could complement them and network with them.

Big Brothers Big Sisters (BBBS) is apparently the oldest and best known of the youth assistance groups available around the nation. Big Sisters were organized in 1902 by Ernest Coulter, court clerk, in New York, and rapidly spread throughout the nation.

So powerful has the organization become that Big Brothers Big Sisters in Schools is a core program which partners with schools and volunteer-rich organizations with churches, colleges, employers and fraternities. In his 2003 State of the Union Address, President George Bush announced a three-year, $450 million mentoring initiative.

BBBS seems to be the template of youth mentoring/tutoring organizations which pair adults with children in order to supplement and, in some cases, supply the additional help needed in rearing children. Most often quoted is the African saying: "It takes a village to rear a child." Clearly, parents need all the extended-family help they can get.

Already serving over 200,000 children aged 6 through 18 in 5,000 communities in all 50 states, the long-term mission of BBBS is to serve one million children by the year 2010. The BBBS youth track record is eye-catching: 46% less likely to start drugs; 27% less likely to use alcohol; 52% less likely to skip school; 37% less likely to skip class.

Each One Save One is another of numerous programs aimed at mentoring, tutoring and otherwise giving multi-level support to our children, our most vulnerable and most needy citizens. Where children have both parents with them, these programs are important, but, where either one or no parent is there, the programs are also together crucial and necessary.

The organization's mission states: "In order to foster confident, motivated and responsible children, Each One Save One helps to establish new and support existing mentoring organizations by recruiting, screening, training and supporting."

Espousing the principle that one-on-one is the most efficient and most effective way of meaningful communication between people, especially between adults and children, Each One Save One pairs one adult with one child. The tangible results are visible in the greatly improved family relations, study habits and attitudes of our children.

100 Black Men is another potent group which mentors, tutors and sponsors children around the country. They put their money where their mouth is, giving generously and freely of the three Ts: time, talent, treasure. In addition to the obvious improvement of the local youth, there is an astounding decline in crime where 100 Black Men are involved.

The Youth Task Force is an initiative to help at-risk youth in Jefferson Parish near New Orleans. Its mission is to create a supportive environment for the local youth. The Youth Task Force is an outgrowth of a nationwide program called America's Promise, comprised of numerous men dedicated to helping our youth lead productive lives. America's Promise

"is a collaborative network that builds upon the collective power of communities and partners to help fulfill the Five Promises for every young person in America." Every child needs the Five Promises: 1. Caring adults; 2. Safe places; 3. Healthy start; 4. Marketable skills; 5. Opportunities to serve.

Other programs to explore: Great Dads, Building Loving, Lasting Relationships With Your Kids; Dads For Kids; Dads Making Time For Kids; Foster Care Parenting; Adopt a School (by companies). There must be quite a few others which are not well publicized.

All such youth assistance groups are highly important and, in some instances in the inner city, necessary to the well-being and overall human development of our youth. However, it remains true that the most vital groups are the core neighborhood variety composed of local youth, parents, guardians, teachers, counselors and officials.

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, STD

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

You must be Born Again!

We go through life searching for financial security. Many seek prominence in public life. Still others endeavor in the field of science and education. Some have a goal hoping the military will fulfill. The entertainment world has many a soul in pursuit of a life changing experience, they hope.

Yet, the born again people who are walking through this life know who holds their future in His hands. God almighty is their father, which gives them a real secure feeling. The know no one, no deity nothing can separate them from the love of God. Romans, chapter 8.

To think that God almighty who has created millions of galaxies knows his people by name. The born again believer knows at anytime he can go before the throne of God and make his request known.

Reader, it must be wonderful to know this God who runs the universe listens to what concerns you. When asked He gets involved to help you.

However, there's one thing He can't do and won't do; try to make you love Him with all your heart.

Is it now hard to understand why many people care little or nothing about getting to know God? Many claim to know Him, which usually means they know about Him; they do not know Him personally.

Do you know him personally? You can. Tell Him you would like too.

The "Word" for the Week

My servant will justify many Christianity majors in two things, what we are to believe concerning God and the duty God expects of humankind. These are the big issues. They are both quite important as we reckon with our relationship with God. First of all, every human being comes into this world at odds with God. There is a propensity in our hearts to rebel against God, ignore His words given in the Bible and live pleasure driven lives at the expense of others. We see this readily in our hedonistic overly stimulated society. Now contrary to popular belief, God is not in the business of removing every source of pleasure in life. Actually, God's desire is to replace the ephemeral short-lived pleasure of the world with more substantial, lasting delight found in him. To bring this about, God sent His Son, Jesus Christ, into the world. Christ died to pay the penalty due to people like you and me for our rebellion, self-centeredness and greed. When we trust in the sacrifice of Christ, we are right with God. The Bible calls this justification. We go through life trying to justify our mistakes, justify our positions on various issues and justify our greed and intolerance. We even try to justify ourselves to God. But that won't wash. We need Jesus Christ to step in and represent us before the Father. We need Jesus Christ to say to God, "Father, I died for this lonely soul. Take him, take her, into your heaven." We don't justify ourselves before God. Jesus Christ does it for us. Rather than always trying to justify ourselves, we need to trust Jesus Christ.

Special recalls stars' early stabs at TV success

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Before Dennis Franz rode "NYPD Blue" to stardom, he rode a horse unsuccessfully in "NYPD Mounted."

If "Just Good Friends" had sold, Courtney Thorne-Smith may not have been available for "Melrose Place."

And were they committed to "Keys," Marg Helgenberger and Gary Dourdan might not have "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" on their resumes today.

Before a performer scores a home-screen hit, there's usually one series attempt - at least - that never gets on the air. On Monday, Aug. 16, ABC surveys some tries stopped in their tracks in the new special "The Best TV Shows That Never Were," compiling clips from unsold pilots.

The show's opening scene from the 1994 movie "Pulp Fiction," in which Samuel L. Jackson explains TV pilots to John Travolta, sets up the tone ideally. For an extra taste, try the included sequence from "Poochini," with Peter Boyle as a cop killed in the line of duty ... and reincarnated as a talking dog. "Everybody Loves Raymond" must look better to Boyle all the time.

Some pilots excerpted in the special actually did get on the air as TV movies, like "Bunco" - teaming Robert Ulrich and a mustache-less Tom Selleck - and "Higher Ground," with John Denver as a law enforcer who breaks out his guitar at convenient moments. "The Questor Tapes," with Robert Foxworth as an android opposite Mike Farrell ("M*A*S*H"), had a single, fruitless shot at glory; so did "Bates Motel," a "Psycho" knockoff with Bud Cort as the inn's new owner.

As for sitcoms, there's the "Odd Couple" variation "Ethel Is an Elephant," in which half of the duo is (you guessed it) a pachyderm. At least that has a real animal: "A Dog's Life" is a total embarrassment, with actors prancing around in canine costumes.

Finally, in a would-be comedy only a network executive could love, "Charnel 99" stars (or, rather, would have starred) Mariu Henner as a TV programmer just released from a mental hospital. Check out the would-be series in "The Best TV Shows That Never Were," and you might believe the fact isn't all that far from the fiction.

"NASCAR Racing" Sunday, Aug. 15 (TNT, 2 p.m. ET): An aggressive driver normally, Robby Gordon has to mentally switch gears when he's navigating the 2.45-mile road course at Watkins Glen International Speedway. He defends his title in the Sirius at the Glen by using what he calls a "slow motion" style, which helps him avoid spinning and locking up his tires, a problem other drivers usually encounter. Jeff Gordon isn't one of them, though. He extended his road-racing wins record to eight at Sonoma in June.

"XXVIII Summer Olympics" Wednesday, Aug. 18 (NBC, 8 p.m. ET): Paul Hamm tries to duplicate his world championship title by winning Olympic gold in the all-around. No American man had ever won the all-around world title until Hamm did last year, and only Peter Vidmar, in 1984, has medaled for the United States in this Olympic event. Also, Lance Armstrong won't be racing, but two of his teammates - Tyler Hamilton and Bobby Julich - who helped him win the Tour de France will be in the cycling individual time trial.

"XXVIII Summer Olympics" Saturday, Aug. 21 (NBC, 8 p.m. ET): The final day of swimming could see Michael Phelps make history. The 19-year-old from Baltimore is slated to swim in the 4x100-meter medley relay, an event the United States has never lost in the Olympics. It's Phelps' eighth chance to win gold in Athens, which, if accomplished, would break Mark Spitz's record of seven from 1972. Also, the world's fastest woman is determined in the 100-meter final, in which 2000 winner Marion Jones did not qualify.

Celebrity Scoop

Masiela Lusha

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Motivation is a fine thing, but you'll probably need several cups of strong coffee as well if you plan to keep up with Masiela Lusha.

The young actress, who scores laughs each week as self-absorbed teenager Carmen Consuela Lopez on ABC's hit Friday sitcom, is about as goal-oriented as they come.

"Accomplishment is my caffeine right now," she laughs. "I just really want to see how far I can go. I want to test my limits. But I don't really consider it work or look back to see how far I have come, because every single day I can't imagine spending it any other way than to learn something new in some way." Born in Albania, Lusha, an only child, lived in several European countries with her mother before they finally settled in Michigan when she was 7. While she was modeling there, a California agent discovered her at a seminar, where Lusha was one of three out of 600 picked to go to Los Angeles.

She admits that in high school, her life revolved almost exclusively around classwork and auditions.

"I really didn't have much of a social life," Lusha says. "Every single day I would come home and ask whether there was an audition for me. I didn't really care about hanging out with my friends. Looking back, I kind of regret that, but I wouldn't be in the position I'm in now if I had done things differently."

Now 18, she currently is studying English and Business at UCLA, but considers acting her first love.

"I want to be the top in my field, and if I keep working hard, that day will come," she says. "I don't believe anyone can actually fail in Hollywood. The danger is just giving up."

Born: Oct. 23, 1985, in Tirana, Albania.

Her first name: "Masiela" is a combination of her parents' names, Max and Daniela.

Education: Graduated high school at 15; currently attending UCLA.

Professional role models: Grace Kelly and Julia Roberts.

Favorite authors: Jane Austen and Shakespeare.

Early bloomer: Published "Inner Thoughts" in both English and Albanian in 1998 when she was 12.

Language skills: In addition to unaccented English, Masiela speaks German, French and Albanian.

Other TV credits: "Clifford the Big Red Dog," "Lizzie McGuire."

Hobbies: Include dancing, gymnastics, cooking, singing.

Drivers jockey for position as Nextel Cup heads for its 'Chase'

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

When it was announced prior to this season, NASCAR Nextel Cup's new points system met with mixed reaction. The new system divides the season into two segments: the 26-race regular season and the 10-race "Chase for the Nextel Cup," in which only the top 10 drivers and those within 400 points of the leader could participate. Proponents lauded the system for putting more emphasis on winning and minimizing the chance that someone could win the championship with only one victory, as did Matt Kenseth last year.

Detractors argued that by awarding only five points per win, the system cheats drivers with many wins, while making others not in the top 10 feel left out.

With the series heading to Watkins Glen, N.Y., for the Sirius at the Glen this Sunday, Aug. 15 (airing on TNT), drivers will be jockeying for position in their final push to qualify for the playoff. How do they feel about the new points system now?

Robby Gordon, who at press time was on the outside looking in at 22nd place, feels it has worth. "I'm actually good with it," he says, "and I think it's going to make it very exciting for a lot of the fans when we get to that last 10. It'll bring some excitement back to the series late in the season."

Gordon isn't blaming the system for his precarious position. "You're looking at a DNF (did not finish) in Daytona, a DNF at Rockingham, you know, wheels fall off at Infineon," he says. "There are definitely places that we easily should have scored 100 more points each weekend. And if you take those 400 points, we'd be sitting here sixth or seventh in the championship. So, shame on us, and I just think we have to work harder. We are a team, and we're putting our heads down and trying to work our way into the top 10. The only way we're going to get there is very, very good results right now, and race tracks that are good to us. Indianapolis, we finished in the top 10 the last two years. We get to come to Watkins Glen, where we won last year. Anything can happen, obviously. You see what happened at Sonoma - we won that race also, and we went back there and were a complete flop. So I think you've just got to put your head down and do everything you know, and try to do it to the best ability you can."

On the other hand, Kenseth - who stood in fifth in the Nextel Cup standings at press time - prefers the old system. "I'm kind of a traditionalist," he says, "and I kind of like things the way they were. So I wouldn't be a very good businessman. I liked the way it was and the way people have done it for the last 30 years. I just think that you should have to be good all year long."

"I mean, say it keeps going like it is," he argues. "Jimmie Johnson's going to get robbed after 26 races, probably by a couple of hundred points - more than that, depending on how you look at it. I mean, he's probably going to have a 600-700 point lead over 10th place, and he's going to give up all but 45 points of that. And I just think for him and his team that have done such a great job all year, I don't feel that's fair. If he can still win the thing at the end of the year, it'll turn out OK. But if he loses it because he had to give up all those points, I just don't think that's fair to him."

"I mean, you're rewarded by a five-point lead over second, but you know, five points isn't really anything. So yeah, I definitely feel for him or whoever the leader is at that time that's ahead and has to give those points up. But I just feel bad for him, if it is him, and that team that's in that position."

Gordon has the opportunity to make up ground this weekend on the road course at the Watkins Glen International Speedway. He's run well there in the past - and on road courses in general. "It seems like we've excelled on the road courses a little bit up until this year at Sonoma," he says. "You know, we should have won the last three in a row at Watkins Glen. I caught on fire leading one of them, won one of them, and I think we finished third or fourth in the other one. So we've had some really good runs."

"I think to be a good Cup driver, you have to be good on the road courses nowadays, too," Gordon continues, "and I think Dale (Earnhardt) Jr. and Jimmie Johnson (Jeff) Gordon and those guys have all picked up the road race program as well. A few years ago, the road race experts or whatever had some advantage on them. But these teams and drivers have all picked up the pace for sure, and made it a lot more competitive on the road courses and more difficult to dominate on them."

For his part, Kenseth is just going to give it his best effort. "I'm not necessarily that great at road racing," he admits. "But it's a track that's fun to go to. It's really fun for a road course, and we approach it like any other race. We go up there and try to spend some time on it, and do the best we can there."

Soap Talk

Leyden and Colombino deliver

Paul Leyden

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

Timing is everything. Just ask former "As The World Turns" hunk Paul Leyden (Simon), whose two-month return to the CBS soap wrapped shortly before he started filming episodes of his new prime-time NBC series, "LAX."

Leyden made the commitment to return to Oakdale before he landed the pilot of the new series co-starring Heather Locklear, and there was no getting out of it. The soap's writers really needed Simon back. His visit was a device to get Katie out of town - and pregnant Terri Colombino (the actress who plays the role) needed maternity leave. That said, Colombino gave birth to her first child, a daughter named Julie Catherine, on July 8.

As for Leyden, he can be found playing the handsome customer service agent at the airport in Ontario, Calif., which doubles for Los Angeles International Airport.

"He's smooth, he's different and he enjoys his job," the Aussie hottie says of his new gig. "He enjoys the adrenaline charge of dealing with situations and having to plug holes very quickly. He has to make sure that everyone is happy. As you know, in airports, people get unhappy very quickly, so he has to placate them with humor and charm."

In other daytime news, Corbin Bernsen, who last year joined his mom, Jeanne Cooper, in "The Young and the Restless," has been added to the cast of "General Hospital" as John Durant, Carly Corinthos (Tamera Braun) biological father. "I am thrilled to be part of this fantastic show and wonderful cast and re-explore the world of daytime," says Bernsen, whose first airdate will be Sept. 3.

Over at "Days of Our Lives," the role of Belle Black has been recast again. Martha Anne Madison took over for Charity Rahmer on Aug. 10.

Dear Paulette: Who plays Hector Ramirez on "The Bold and the Beautiful"? Wasn't he one of the back-in-the-day, nighttime soap actors? Valerie R., Wichita, Kan.

Dear Reader: Lorenzo Lamas plays the hunky firefighter in "B&B." He previously played Lance Cumson for nine years in CBS' "Falcon Crest."

Send questions of general interest to Paulette Cohn, Soap Talk, Zap2it, 333 Glen St., Glens Falls, NY 12801, or e-mail to soaptalk@tribune.com. Only questions selected for this column will be answered. Personal replies cannot be sent.

Prodigal brother Vincent returns to 'Amy'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q I recently heard just the tall end of an entertainment report, but I think it said something about Dan Futterman rejoining the cast of "Judging Amy." He was a favorite, but I haven't been able to find anything definite on the situation. -Laurie in Atlanta.

A "Judging Amy" fans - and CBS executives, no doubt - are celebrating the news that Dan Futterman has agreed to resume his role as Judge Amy Gray's (Amy Brenneman) brother, Vincent, starting this fall.

A favorite among the show's viewers, Futterman asked to be released from his contract in 2001 in order to spend time with his wife and daughter.

The actor's decision to return couldn't come at a better time for CBS. Ratings for "Amy" began to falter last year, and as the show enters its sixth season against an apparently unstoppable "Law & Order: Special Victims Unit" on NBC, the endearing Vincent might help shore up the eroding fan base of "Judging Amy."

Dan Futterman

Q I have seen the actress who plays Calamity Jane in "Deadwood" in guest appearances on "Law & Order."

Will she be back in the second season of the HBO series? -Mary E. Hayes via e-mail.

A Her character may have wandered out of town shortly before the first season ended, but theater veteran Robin Weigert, who copped an Emmy nomination for her colorful and gutsy performance as Calamity Jane, is hard at work right now filming Season 2 of the hit HBO series.

Weigert, previously seen in the brief role of the Mormon mother in HBO's "Angels in America," also made guest appearances in the spring on "Cold Case" and "NYPD Blue." I predict you'll be seeing a lot more of this smart, versatile actress.

August 15 - 21, 2004

This comedy series takes a page from "The Wonder Years" and presents the formative years of impressionable 11-year-old Oliver (Grant Rosenmeyer), a kid seeking normalcy in the early 1960s, as seen through the narration of the adult Oliver (voice of David Cross). Grant Shaud ("Murphy Brown") and Wendy Makkena ("Air Bud") play his slightly off-kilter parents.

6 p.m. on 6-NBC

XXVIII Summer Olympics

The reigning world champion U.S. women's gymnastics team begins its gold-medal pursuit tonight led by Courtney Kupets and Courtney McCool, who finished 1-2 at the June Trials. At the Aquatics Centre, rivals Michael Phelps of the United States and Australia's Ian Thorpe are the headliners in the 4x100-meter freestyle relay. The Americans' undefeated streak in this event at the Olympics ended at the hands of the Aussies four years ago.

6:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Malcolm in the Middle

Reprising her recurring guest role as Grandma Ida, Cloris Leachman is reunited with her former "Mary Tyler Moore Show" cohort Betty White in "Victor's Other Family." White plays the other wife of Lois' (Jane Kaczmarek) father, and while she's being visited by Lois and the boys, the ever-vengeful Ida drops in. An accident affects Hal's (Bryan Cranston) participation in a father-son race.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Charmed

Darryl (Dorian Gregory) is convicted of murder and sentenced to die in "Crimes and Witch-Demeanors." His apparent fate results from an effort to cover up Phoebe and Paige's (Alyssa Milano, Rose McGowan) caught-on-tape use of magic. The witches try to alter the situation, and in doing so, they are placed on trial for the manner in which they've used their powers. Billy Drago ("The Untouchables") guest stars.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: An Officer and a Gentleman

Depicting as it does the first steps of a wannabe Navy fighter pilot, this 1982 drama could serve as a prequel to "Top Gun." Richard Gere and David Keith star as green Naval Aviation Corps recruits who learn there's more to flying than "sitting in a chair pushing buttons." The two also find romance with a pair of local women, with widely differing results. Louis Gossett Jr. won an Oscar for his performance as the drill sergeant.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Swordfish

High-tech espionage drives this fast-paced 2001 adventure starring John Travolta as a renegade spy who recruits a computer hacker (Hugh Jackman) in a scheme to steal secret, unused government funds. Their employers want to use the money to bankroll a covert offensive against international terrorism. Halle Berry, Don Cheadle and Sam Shepard also are in the cast.

8 p.m. on HBO

Six Feet Under

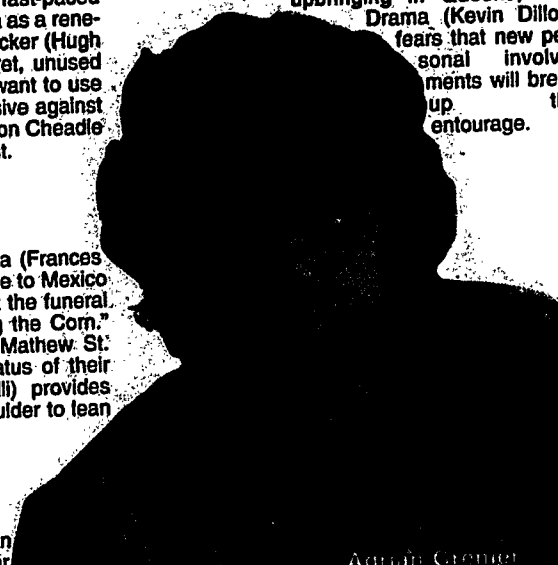

In the absence of Ruth and Bettina (Frances Conroy, Kathy Bates), who have gone to Mexico together, male bonding is the rule at the funeral home in the new episode "Grinding the Corn." David and Keith (Michael C. Hall, Matthew St. Patrick) come to terms with the status of their relationship. Jimmy (Peter Facinelli) provides Claire (Lauren Ambrose) with a shoulder to lean on. Billy (Jeremy Sisto) returns.

9 p.m. on HBO

Entourage

The peaceable influence of a vegan proves a mighty force not just for Vince (Adrian Grenier), who is dating her, but for his pals in the new episode "The Script and the Sherpa." Eric (Kevin Connolly) has high hopes for a script that evokes his own upbringing in Queens, N.Y. Drama (Kevin Dillon) fears that new personal involvements will break up the entourage.

That '70s Show
 Brooke Shields continues her guest role as Jackie's (Mila Kunis) mother, whose interest in Bob (Don Stark) only seems to intensify, in "Man With Money." Donna (Laura Prepon) and Jackie deploy Fez (Wilmer Valderrama) to determine the truth. Kitty (Debra Jo Rupp) is more bothered by Red's (Kurtwood Smith) new heart monitor than he is.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
The Best TV Shows That Never Were Before "NYPD Blue" existed for Dennis Franz, there was "NYPD Mounted," which — you guessed it — consigned him to horseback riding. The pilot never became a series, thus qualifying it for this lighthearted special that visits the graveyard of series that might have been. Keanu Reeves, Scott Bakula and Mariu Henner also turn up in the festival of failures; some of the busted pilots seen here did get on the air as one-shot TV movies.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
XXVIII Summer Olympics
 It's been 20 years since a U.S. men's gymnastics team medaled in the Olympics, a drought that could very well end tonight. Buoyed by recent success at the World Championships, the deep and talented squad is led by Paul Hamm, who some say is the best male gymnast in the United States since Kurt Thomas. Lending support and veteran savvy is three-time Olympian Blaine Wilson. Also on tap: four finals in swimming.

7 p.m. on AMC
Movie: Waiting to Exhale
 Four professional women share friendship, laughter and tears as they support one another through the good and bad times of their often tempestuous lives and loves. Whitney Houston, Angela Bassett, Loretta Devine, Lela Rochon, Gregory Hines and Dennis Haysbert star. Grammy winner Babyface supervised the music for this 1995 film.

7 p.m. on TMC
Movie: Bowling for Columbine
 Although he caused a stir with his speech when he won an Oscar for this 2002 documentary, Michael Moore — who also was honored by the Cannes Film Festival — delivers a powerful portrait of the gun culture in the United States, using the high-school shootings in the little Colorado town as his springboard. In one of the most-discussed sequences, Moore interviews then-National Rifle Association chief Charlton Heston on the subject.

6:15 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Solaris

After working with him on "Out of Sight" and "Ocean's Eleven," George Clooney again teamed with director Steven Soderbergh on this 2002 Americanization of a famed Russian film. Despite science-fiction trappings, the story is a cerebral study of a psychologist (Clooney) who has a startling reunion with his late wife (Natascha McElhone) on an orbiting, problem-plagued space station. Soderbergh also wrote the screenplay.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Movie: Gilmore Girls

Lorelai and Jason's (Lauren Graham, Chris Egan) romance becomes public when his father (guest star Lawrence Pressman) sues Jason and Richard (Edward Herrmann) for taking his clients in "Tick, Tick, Tick, Boom!" Lindsay (guest star Arielle Kebbel) is upset that Dean (Jared Padalecki) is maintaining close contact with Rory (Alexis Bledel), who isn't happy that Dean has left college.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

XXVIII Summer Olympics

Remember "The Magnificent Seven" from the Atlanta Olympics? Well, another group of American gymnasts may soon inspire a similar nickname after tonight's women's team competition. The threesome of Courtney Kupets, Carly Patterson and Courtney McCool highlight the six-girl roster, which includes only Patterson and Terin Humphrey from the squad that won gold at the 2003 World Championships.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: The River Wild

The wilderness of Montana and Oregon provides the backdrop for this 1994 action-thriller. Meryl Streep plays an unhappy wife and former white-water guide who takes her husband and son on a river expedition. After coming to the aid of two young rafters, the family is soon at the mercy of murderous thieves. Kevin Bacon, David Strathairn and John C. Reilly ("Chicago") co-star.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

Summerland

Summer ends for Ava (Lori Loughlin), her new young charges and her always-present friends with the series' first-season finale, "On the Last Night of Summer." Ava is confused by her feelings for both Johnny and Simon (Shawn Christian, guest star Jay Harrington). Bradin (Jesse McCartney) worries about Callie's (guest star Danielle Savre) ever-shifting emotions. Nikki (Kay Panabaker) fully feels the impact of her parents' deaths.

8 p.m. and DSC

American Chopper

The many moviegoers who have seen the sci-fi film "I, Robot" know Will Smith's character tools around a futuristic Chicago — and battles countless androids — aboard a cool-looking motorcycle. It's only fitting Smith would want a tricked-out bike for the premiere of the picture, and he helps this show's experts implement appropriate ideas in Part 1 of "I, Robot Bike."

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Amazing Race 5

The competition is really getting fierce now. The new episode "Are You Sure This Is Safe?" finds a seventh team in the around-the-world contest getting booted, leaving four two-person squads to continue toward the eventual finish line and the $1 million grand prize. Host Phil Keoghan monitors the progress of the remaining participants — who also monitor one another, hoping to capitalize on their rivals' perceived weaknesses.

10:30 p.m. on 19-PBS

P.O.V.

Few parents expect their children to make headlines the way Amadou Diallo, Anthony Baez and Gary Busch did in New York during the 1990s. They all became victims of police brutality, sparking very vocal protests against the officers involved. The grieving mothers of the three men have played pivotal roles in such outcries, and the new episode "Every Mother's Son" traces their unified efforts.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Family Guy

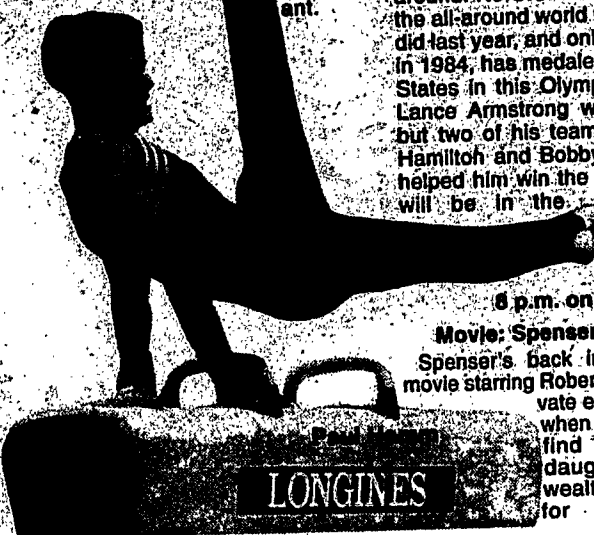

Seth MacFarlane's animated sitcom rejoins the Fox lineup with a four-episode marathon, starting with "Ready, Willing and Disabled." Peter (voice of MacFarlane) tries to help policeman Joe (voice of guest star Patrick Warburton), who doubts himself after failing to apprehend a thief. Joe unwittingly drinks steroids furnished by Peter and becomes a gold-medal Olympian. Tony Danza and Valerie Bertinelli also supply guest voices.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Smallville

Chloe (Allison Mack) is threatened by two unlikely assailants — Clark and Lana (Tom Welling, Kristin Kreuk), who receive e-mails that send them into attack mode — in "Delete." Clark determines that others want Chloe silenced because of what she's learned about a mind-control

Lana allows the mysterious Adam (guest star Ian Somerhalder) to become her ten-experiment.

7 p.m. on 8-NBC

XXVIII Summer Olympics

Paul Hamm tries to duplicate his gymnastics world championship title by winning Olympic gold in the all-around. No U.S. man had ever won the all-around world title until Hamm did last year, and only Peter Vidmar, in 1984, has medaled for the United States in this Olympic event. Also, Lance Armstrong won't be racing, but two of his teammates — Tyler Hamilton and Bobby Julich — who helped him win the Tour de France will be in the cycling individual time trial.

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: Spenser: Ceremony

Spenser's back in this 1993 TV movie starring Robert Ulrich as the private eye. It's all politics when he is hired to find the missing daughter of a wealthy man running for governor. His kick-butt partner, Hawk (Avery Brooks), also joins the hunt, which leads to the center of a child pornography ring. Dave Nichols and Tanya Allen co-star.

8 p.m. on TNN

Movie: The Killing Fields

U.S. journalist Sydney Schanberg (Sam Waterston) finds it hard to maintain objectivity while covering the Cambodian civil war in director Roland Joffe's fact-inspired 1984 drama. When U.S. forces evacuate the country, Schanberg's translator (Oscar winner Haing S. Ngor, who experienced the same event in real life) stays there with the reporter — at great personal risk. John Malkovich and Craig T. Nelson co-star.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

The Drew Carey Show

He looks a lot different now — thanks to a dramatic weight loss

— but Wayne Knight doesn't act much differently from his famous "Seinfeld" role as smug Newman as he guest stars in "Liar, Liar, House on Fire." In this new episode directed by series star Carey, Knight plays the insurance man who judges whether Mimi (Kathy Kinney) gets reimbursed after a house fire that has put her and Gus (guest star Matthew Josten) under Drew's roof.

9 p.m. on MTV

Newlyweds: Nick & Jessica

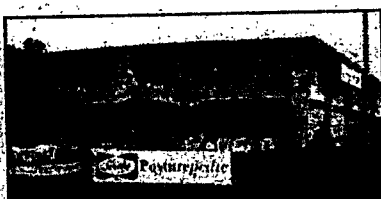

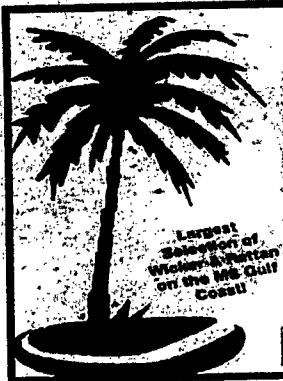

Farewell, Jessica and Nick. Intellectuals may not miss you, but the viewers who made your series so popular will weep in their handkerchiefs — if they can find them under the dirty-clothes pile. This episode marks the end of your second season of legalized voyeurism, and faithful fans will have to feed their souls with reruns until you return.

Blue Collar TV

A tradition of American life gets fresh input from Jeff Foxworthy, Bill Engvall and Larry the Cable Guy — even if it's advice that shouldn't necessarily be followed by anyone else — in the new episode "Vacation." Advice is offered on stopping a loud youngster's noisy ways at a swimming pool, enjoying cable-TV service again quickly after it goes out, and dealing with the May-December marriage of a parent.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

XXVIII Summer Olympics

Only one American, Mary Lou Retton, has won the Olympic all-around title. That could change tonight with the United States expected to contend for gold, in particular top gymnasts Courtney Kupets, Carly Patterson and

Carly Patterson

Courtney McCool, two of whom will be chosen for the all-around based on scores from the team competition. Kupets and Patterson are co-national champions, and Patterson was second in the all-around at the World Championships.

Movie: Road Trip

Several Ithaca, N.Y., college students set out on a trek that proves unforgettable — for many reasons — in this 2000 comedy. Their mission is to retrieve a videotape wrongly sent to the girlfriend (Rachel Blanchard, "7th Heaven") of one of the fellows (Breckin Meyer), containing material likely to spell the end of their relationship.

8 p.m. on USA

Movie: Never Been Kissed

A newspaper editor relives the indignities of her teen years when she goes under cover as a high-school student. But with help from her brother, a one-time high-school hotshot, she finds it much more pleasant the second time around. Too bad she can't tell the teacher who turns her on (it's mutual) that she's not really underage. Drew Barrymore sparkles in this 1999 comedy. David Arquette, Leelee Sobieski and Michael Vartan co-star.

What I Like About You
 Henry's (Michael, McMillian) dedication to helping Holly (Amanda Bynes) apply for a Paris internship causes her to wonder if she was right to break up with him in "The Big Picture." Rick (guest star Ed Kerr) is ordered by his fiancée (guest star Lisa Ann) to stay away from Val (Jennie Garth).

XXVIII Summer Olympics
 It's back to the pool in Athens tonight. U.S. water bug Michael Phelps competes in his seventh event, the 100-meter butterfly, where his toughest foe figures to be teammate and world-record holder Ian Crocker. In diving, the women's platform competition begins with Laura Wilkinson, the defending gold medalist. Wilkinson's improbable comeback from eighth to first while diving with a broken foot was the biggest U.S. story four years ago in Sydney, Australia.

7 p.m. on FAM
Movie: Beautiful Girl
 Marissa Jaret Winokur, a Tony Award winner for the Broadway hit "Hairspray," got her first television starring role in this 2003 romantic comedy movie. She plays a young woman with a fiancé (Mark Consuejos, "Missing"), a semi-supportive mother (Fran Drescher, "The Nanny") and a desire to enter a beauty pageant — even if she's not the typical-looking contender. Winokur performs two songs by former teen idol Deborah Gibson.

7 p.m. and TNT
Movie: The Mothman Prophecies
 A legend long believed by many people fuels this 2002 melodrama, starring Richard Gere as a reporter who investigates the claim that certain individuals — including the journalist's wife (Debra Messing, "Will & Grace") — saw a bizarre creature just before their deaths. Laura Linney, also Gere's co-star in 1998's "Primal Fear," plays a small-town police officer who helps the widower.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Hope & Faith
 Guest star Robert Wagner returns as the sibling father and works with another Hollywood veteran, Tony Curtis, in "Jack's Back." Dad's fiancée has left him, so he pays a visit to Hope and Faith (Faith Ford, Kelly Ripa), and begins dating Faith's friend Mandi (guest star Jenny McCarthy). Fearing Mandi will hurt her father, Faith dates Mandi's dad (Curtis) in retaliation.

9 p.m. and USA

Monk
 Tony Shalhoub wraps up his third season as the obsessive-compulsive private detective with "Mr. Monk Takes His Medicine," which finds Monk treating his disorder with medication that robs him of his sleuthing skills. The timing is a problem, since he was trying to solve a shooting that left Captain Stottlemeyer (Ted Levine) wounded. A nearby suicide committed almost simultaneously yields clues.

Movie: The Green Berets

John Wayne faced some of the sharpest criticism he ever received in his career for his distinctly hawkish views in this 1968 war drama, which he produced and co-directed. He plays a military captain who demonstrates his soldiers' mettle to a cynical news correspondent (David Janssen). Jim Hutton, Aldo Ray and Raymond St. Jacques are among the other stars.

Movie: Johnny English

Rowan Atkinson ("Mr. Bean") appeared in a James Bond movie, "Never Say Never Again," and he gets to play a faux 007 in this engaging 2003 spy spoof with a script by Neal Purvis and Robert Wade, who also wrote the last two Bond films. After many of his fellow spies are eliminated, British agent English rises to the challenge of retrieving the stolen crown jewels. John Malkovich and singer Natalie Imbruglia also star.
